PADILLA BAY

Padilla Bay is an estuary. Thousands of years ago the Skagit River meandered back and forth between Skagit and Padilla Bays. Huge brackish marshes laid north and south of the Bay View Ridge, where the Breazeale Interpretive Center is now located. In the late 1800's the river mouth was confined to Skagit Bay, leaving Padilla Bay "orphaned" from its river. Today Padilla Bay's freshwater comes from a number of agricultural sloughs and the Swinomish Channel which connects Skagit and Padilla Bays.

Research is conducted at Padilla Bay to monitor plant and animal populations, evaluated sources of pollution, protect water quality, and to understand ecological processes operating in the bay and the bay's relationship to greater Puget Sound. Padilla Bay, the only National Estuarine Research Reserve in Washington State, was designated in 1980 and is managed the Washington State Department of Ecology. The Reserve owns and manages approximately 11,000 acres of the bay and nearly 200 upland acres.

Make sure the front is filled out as fully as possible. Note your mileage and then get your time from one of the rallymasters. Hand your form in to be corrected to the rallymaster.

Wait! Do you have a hard luck story? Yes or No? (Circle one) If yes, please write your tale of woe on the back of this form after you've got all else filled out and then turn it in. Your bad luck may win you a prize if it's bad enough. Now, go and relax for a bit while your form is scored. If you did not pack a lunch, food is available in the casino. Perhaps you can try your luck at the tables or slots for a time. Make sure you're back for the door prizes and our glorious winners!

Thanks for your participation in the 26th Annual Tulip Rally. We hope you had fun. You are welcome to voice your complaints about the Rally questions and absurd answers. However, please be aware such dissent contributes directly to global warming. Boo and hiss if you will when the correct answers are read off, but remember you are hurting our environment when you do so. It's a scientific fact that will be proven in Al Gore's next film. Until then, trust us.
